Madrid, March 23, N. S.

THE Duke de St. Simon sets out To-Morrow for Paris, having taken his Leave of their Catholick Majesties, who made him Presents of their Pictures inriched with Diamonds to the Value of 10000 Pistoles. The Marquess de Maulevrier was this Day installed Knight of the Golden Fleece: He will shortly go back to France, leaving M. de Chavigny to reside at this Court.

Turin, March 28, N. S. On the 26th Instant Mr. Molesworth, the British Envoy, went to Court, and had Audience of his Sardinian Majesty, the Queen, and Madame Royale, to whom he delivered Letters from the King his Master, notifying the Death of the Dutchess of Zell; upon which Orders were immediately given for this Court's going into Mourning To-Morrow. The same Day the Count de la Roque, Governour of the Citadel of Turin, gave a magnificent Entertainment to the Count d'Hatzfeld and his Lady, with the other German Ladies who came from Sultzbach with the Princess, who are preparing for their Journey Home, and who are extremely satisfied with the Splendour of her Royal Highness's Reception here: The said Count has been presented by the King with his Majesty's Picture set in Diamonds, his Lady with a Cross of Diamonds, and the other Ladies with Rings of great Value.

Paris, April 1, N. S. The Abbot Fleury having on Account of his great Age and Infirmities resigned the Office of the King's Confessour, Father Lignieres a Jesuite is appointed his Majesty's Confessour in his room, and has received the Compliments of the Court upon it; but the Cardinal de Noailles, by virtue of his Office of Great Almoner, refuses yet to authorize Father Lignieres to act in that Station. The Duke Regent appeared Yesterday in publick, and gave Audience to the foreign Ministers as usual. Count Rotembourg, the Prussian Minister, is preparing to return to Berlin. The following Advices received by the Court relating to the Plague, have been communicated to the foreign Ministers.

M. de Bernage, in his Letter of the 17th of March, sends the Copy of one from Commissary Richard dated the 13th, by which it appears that in all the Places of the Gevaudan which have been infected with the Plague, there are but eight Persons remaining sick, and almost all of them in a way of Cure; the rest are recovered. M. de la Deveze, in his of the 12th sends a List of the Places of the Gevaudan which have been disinfected and have no sick, their Number is 53. There were six others without any sick, which were going to be disinfected, viz. Chasserans, les Hermes, Prades, Pradessous, Greze, and le Jerre. M. Bernard the commanding Officer at Alais writes the 16th, that from the 15th to the 16th none had died or fallen sick in the Suburbs; the general Quarantain was proclaimed, to begin on the 23d of March. M. de Fraisse the commanding Officer at Mende writes the 6th of March, that on the 2d four Persons had fallen ill, and on the 4th two others; Preparations were making for the general Quarantain, which was to begin the 15th. M. de Rothe, in his of the 16th, 18th and 20th writes, that at Marvejols the Servant of an Inhabitant had died of the Plague, but it was known he had had Communication with Buriers of the Dead, and had received from them some wearing Apparel: For above three Months that Town had not had any other Person dead or sick: The House in which he died was [illegible] infected again, and the other ordinary Precautions were taken: That Accident had [illegible] yet had any Consequence. The Gevaudan, the Sevennes, and the Vivarets, have in all but 10 sick.

The Comtat. M. de Saffelange writes the 16th and 20th of March, that the Distemper at Avignon was ceasing; there were then but two or three taken sick a Day; the Town was under good Order, and the Hospitals regulated. A Surgeon was dead at Chateauneuf de Pape. Monteux, Vedenne, Sorgues, and Sarriane, had not for some Days had any sick.
